

TIMEX | A Legacy
Atelier Of Modernity

TIMEX

Atelier

“These watches are not nostalgic or futuristic.
They are modern. That has always been our tradition at Timex.
Thank you for choosing to continue on this journey with us.”

Giorgio Galli, Chief Creative Director, Timex Group

Timex has been a watchmaker since 1854. Over the past 170 years, we have been in constant pursuit of what is new, relevant, and next. From hard-working daily beaters to era-defining silhouettes, our legacy is not built on a single look or style. It is built on an evolving commitment to modernity, to design that reflects its time and sometimes moves just ahead.

Timex Atelier continues that tradition.

It is not a break from our past. It is a deliberate continuation of the values guiding us through every chapter: independence, quality, and timeless design, alongside a commitment to value that has made Timex trusted for generations.

This collection marks a new chapter for Timex, with every watch carefully designed so luxury, the Timex way, is discovered in the details that matter most, and in the proportions that bring balance to everyday wear.

Timex Atelier watches are not designed to announce themselves; they are designed to hold up under attention. The materials we have selected for each piece capture our commitment to quality and the expression of a design language that speaks for itself.

Timex Atelier is for those who appreciate subtlety, proportion, and modern design, grounded in decades of expertise. It is our invitation to experience luxury in its genuine, essential form.

This is a legacy, not of nostalgia, but of modernity.
